Working from home is the future of our society. I believe more people should be allowed to work remotely. I will explain why I think so in this essay.

First, working from home enables people to spend more time with their children. As some parents work at offices until late, they can only see their children on weekends or holidays. Working remotely will therefore improve many children's lives.

Second, many companies will be able to reduce the amount of office space they need in large cities. Not only can companies save money, but they can also pay their employees better salaries. In this way, the economy will grow and space for housing in large cities will increase.

In conclusion, if we increase the number of people working remotely in our society, we will experience not only human benefits for families, but also economic benefits for the country as a whole. (150 words)

反対意見

Working remotely will lead to disaster. I am of the opinion that working from home should only be allowed in special cases. I will explain my reasons below.

Firstly, working from home limits interaction between employees. Without communication, the number of innovative ideas will decrease. This will slow down or stop the growth of companies and, therefore, the economy.

Secondly, in order to ensure that people are working, privacy will be lost to some extent. Webcams or software to monitor employees' activity could be installed in their homes or computers. This will take companies into employees' private spaces, impacting their human rights.

In conclusion, working from home creates more problems than it solves. Although it may be attractive in the short term, the long-term effects would be disastrous for our society and the economy. We should maintain the status quo and focus on improving working environments for a brighter future. (150 words)
